they are raised for food as well as their ability to eat weedy plants that are unappetising to other animals